SAASSO's Role

SAASSO is the peak parent body for education in South Australia.

SAASSO supports the role and right of parent involvement in the education of their children in South Australia's public schools.

SAASSO is the Governing Council Association for South Australia's public schools.

SAASSO supports and advocates for parent-led Governing Councils in their role as the governing body in public schools. The underlying principal of Local Governance is that the local community – teachers, principals, parents and members of the local community are best equipped to determine the needs of their children and the strategic future of their local school.

SAASSO's Vision

The ultimate outcome of Local Governance is 'improved and enhanced student well-being and achievement'.

Heading into the 21st century, a host of challenges and opportunities await public education; demanding new approaches and attitudes to the very concept of education and a system that is flexible and responsive to the needs of our children and community. South Australia leads the nation in embracing the concept of Local Governance and management, which has been so beneficial and successful in countries such as England and New Zealand.

SAASSO's Mission

With Local Governance a recent development in the education landscape of South Australia, it is undeniable that there are still challenges confronting its implementation - however, it is vital to not mistake issues of implementation and attitude with limitations of the underlying principles of Local Governance.

To have come so far and turn back now would be a failure in our responsibility to our children; especially when a system of Local Governance is best suited to meet the needs of the next century.

What is now needed is comprehensive acceptance of the benefits of Local Governance by all sectors of the education fraternity and consistent implementation and support in our schools.
